Evacuation

Evacuation shelters are places to shelter when you are in danger. They are free. Please go to an evacuation shelter on foot.

Typhoons

When a typhoon strikes, strong wind blows and lots of rain falls. Typhoons occur every year between July and October in Japan. If evacuation instructions are issued, please go to an evacuation shelter.

Earthquakes

Earthquakes are a type of disaster which cannot be predicted. They are very dangerous, as the ground shakes strongly. Please protect yourself in a place where nothing can fall down or collapse.

Tsunamis

Tsunamis are extremely big waves which strike after an earthquake. Tsunamis can also reach somewhere far from the sea. Do not go near the sea. Evacuate on foot as eastwards as possible.

119 Emergency Call

If you find a fire or feel suddenly unwell, call 119. An operator will have questions for you to answer.

- Fire or medical emergency
- Address where a fire engine or ambulance needs to go
- What is happening? / what is happening to who?
(What is burning? / which part of your body is hurting? etc.)
- Your name

If you call 119 in Sakai City, English, Chinese, Korean, Spanish and Portuguese are available as well as Japanese.
